No Hope of Complete Seform Unless They Are Weeded Out-But the Excise Law Has Been Enforced as Never Before, Acting Chief Coulin reported at length to the Police Commissioners at their meeting yesterday what he thought had been accomplished since he succeeded Byrnes four months ago. After announcing that the force was greatly demoralized when he took charge, he has this to say of the enforcement of the Excise law From the very start there has been a progressive improvement in the manner in which this isw has been enforced, until now it is ad-mitted on all sides that there is practically a full and complete compliance with it on the part of all the licensed liquor dealers of this city - a condition which, I venture to state, has pever existed here before. During the past four onths 3,036 arrests have been made for violaon of the Excise law. In by far the majority of these cases the prisoners were held for trial nd punished. However, the thoroughness of the work of the police in enforcing the law is not to be judged by the number of arrests made for its violation, but rather by the uniform man. er in which the law is now observed, and by he evidence on all sides, apparent to even the ost casual observer, that the saloons of this ty are effectually closed on Sundays and durng prohibited hours. The efforts of the police with respect to the enforcement of this law will not be relaxed one jot in the future; and every loon keeper in the city will soon learn that so ong as it subsists, he must comply with its ovisions, and reckon with it as a living part of the law under which the government of the mmunity is administered.

He next says that he has closed 197 disorderby houses and 65 gaming places, and that 235 persons have been arrested for violation of the licy laws. He thinks the Detective Bureau has been greatly improved and that the entire force has been bettered by its present manage ment, but that it is still far from perfect. The neefulness of some commanding officers and men has been destroyed by their continuing too long in one place and forming disreputable connections. There are, too, in the force, he says, "a not inconsiderable number of men who are, for a variety of reasons, rather a detriment than an assistance to the work of reform. Some have been discredited by recent revelations; some have become ineffective through demoralizing associations and the corrupt functions they have discharged; and others are of a mental and menal calibre unfitting them for the performance of intelligent and conscientious police duty. These are not weaknesses which any discipline, however rigorous and austained, can wholly correct; they must rather be gut out and cast away. There remains a healthier element in the ranks, always bitterly sahamed of police abuses and police crimes, deeply desirous of better things, and hopeful, since the advent of your Board, of their approach. It is upon that element I rely for the effectuation of any radical betterment of the future of the police force than the way in which this question shall be decided—whether this weak and vicious contingent shall remain to prolong and aggravate the abuses of past years and prevent the realization of the hopes with which your Board entered into office, or whether it shall be pursed forth, that the better element of the force, freed from its presence and example, shall furnish the foundation upon which to rear a better system.

"I do not venture to suggest to your honorable Board the means by which the end shall be artained. I only desire to impress upon you, as carnestly as I may, its paramount importance, and my conviction that unless some prompt and extraordinary step is taken toward it, the most strenuous efforts toward police reform will, as soon as the present impetus some prompt and extraordinary step is taken toward it, the most strenuous efforts toward police reform will, as soon as the present impetus some prompt and extraordinary step is taken toward it, the most strenuous efforts toward police reform will, as soon as the present impetus some prompt and extr long in one place and forming disreputable convections. There are, too, in the force, he says

Policeman Wagner of the Mulberry street squad was dismissed for being absent three days without leave.
Detective Sergeant John Mulholland was remanded to patrol duty. He has been in the Detective Bureau for a number of years and is one of Byrnes's old men. The Commissioners said he was reduced to the ranks for "police reasons."

he was reduced to the Morrisania reasons."

Roundsman George Titus of the Morrisania station was made acting Sergeant. Titus was formerly a detective Sergeant, and was reduced in the big shake up. He was appointed roundsman a little over a month ago. Sergeant Henry Frers, who has been in charge of the police in the annexed district, was made acting Captain. tain.

Houndsman Thomas McGee of the West Sixty-eighth street station, who was tried for permitting a prisoner to escape while he was attached to the Jefferson Market Court squad, was fined thirty days' pay and remanded to retend the state of the state trol duty. Patrolman Alfred Ahrens of the West Sixty-eighth street station was dismissed for being drunk. Patrolman Joseph A. Gardner of the Jefferson Market Court squad was fined thirty days' pay for permitting a prisoner to escape from the court. Patrolman Louis Rott of East Thirty-fifth street was fined ten days' pay for assaulting a citizen, and Patrolman Henry So-borske, Jr., of East 104th street was fined ten days' pay for using insulting language to a citizen.

The case of Capt, Eakins of the Mercer street station was considered by the Board in executive session, but nothing was done. Commissioner Andrews said later that the Board would, in all probability, give a decision in Eakins's case at the next meeting. The talk is that Eakins will be dismissed.

Takins will be dismissed.

Commissioner Andrews was authorized to communicate with the Corporation Counseland request that official to furnish the Board with an opinion as to whether the proposed fall racing as Morris Park was illegal under Judge Bischoff's decision. Judge Bischoff decided recently that the law passed by the Legislature legalizing certain racing was unconstitutional. August Relmont consulted with the Police Commissioners about the Morris Park races, and he held that there were no legal obstacles in the way of the proposed racing.

that there were no legal obstacles in the way of the proposed racing.

Commissioner Roesevelt, who has been looking over all the roundsmen in the department, aformed his colleagues that he found one set of roundsmen from a certain precinct who had pade hardly any complaints.

Their excuse," said the Commissioner, "was lat the patrolimen attended to their duties so aithfully that there was no occasion to make forebraints. I sent the 'Shoo fly' roundsmen into the precinct and on one tour they found live men neglecting their duty, and they didn't see the regular roundsmen atail."

Mr. Roosevelt declined to tell what what precinct he referred to, but it is believed to be the West 100th street station. The roundsmen there will probably be remanded to patrol duty before long.

Commissioner Rossevelt and Acting Chief contin have been investigating the records of the roundsmen, and it is said that some forty of fifty will be reduced to the ranks in the near

Mrs. Kinnicutt, Fresh from Europe, Is Pleased with His Work,

Commissioner Waring held his regular weekly consultation with Goo Goos, female reformers, and other enthusiasts on the subject of street cleaning in the United Charities building at Twenty-second street and Fourth avenue yeserday afternoon. The company paid all sorts of pretty compliments to the Commissioner, and t id him that the streets had never been so clean as they are now. The Commissioner oved and smiled, and in a brief speech said that the work had only just begun. This letter from Mrs. Eleanora Kinnicutt was

"My DEAR MR. COMMISSIONER: 1 regret extremely that I am unable, because of absence om New York, to attend the meeting on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 8.
'On the day of my arrival from Europe last week. I made directly an examination of the streets, because I wished to look at them with a fresh eye, and to compare them with the streets of Paris and London, which I had examined recently, especially in their worst districts. Paris is not so clear as formerly, and the London streets could be much cleaner than they are, exert in the great thoroughfares, where the best Passible work under existing conditions appears a be done.

provide work under existing conditions appears to be done.

New York streets present, in my judgment, a better appearance today than those of Paris and London. This applies especially to the business, tenement house, and market districts, where the difference in favor of New York is inest marked. The sweepers, too, as I have watched them at work on several days during the mast week, are more active in their movements and go over more ground with their brooms than any awecors that I observed during the mast summer in foreign cities.

What does impress one unfavorably upon a first return to New York is the wretched condition of many of its pavenents. It presents an idealact to sweeping that makes one wonder at the good results recently accomplished by the bipartment of street Cleaning.

I hope to be able to give you by Jan, I a written report of the best experimental work in marhade and rubbind disposal now being done in the principal English and Continental cities. Wherever I wont I found the question still open or signession and improvement, but one in which rapid advances are being made. I hope that our legaritment of Street Cleaning may som be empawered, under your direction, to take a lead in this important matter.

FEBDINAND" A POOR WITNESS. He Says He Knews Nothing Against Mrs.

eming Conlin Confirme This. The feature in the Bliss poisoning case yesterday was the shifting of theories on the part of the police to accord with their latest efforts to secure evidence against Mrs. Mary Alice A. L. Fleming, whom they accuse of poisoning her

The theory which they announced early on Monday morning was that Ferdinand Wilckes was Mrs. Fleming's accomplice. They said that he and the woman needed the money which Mrs. Fleming would inherit at her mother's death. Later in the day they found out that Wilckes is more than ordinarily well nt was given out that to do, and so the statem they never, for a moment, considered Wilckes in the light of an accomplice. They said that he was looked upon as an important witness against Mrs. Fleming; that young Henry E. Bliss, the dead woman's son, had said that Wilckes had frequently talked about poisons Wilckes had frequently talked about poisons with Prof. R. Ogden Doremus of the College of the City of New York. It was to make sure of having Wilckes here to tell about his poison talks with Prof. Doremus at Mrs. Fleming's trial that they arrested him.

Mr. Wilckes was seen at his office yesterday afternoon. He is a tall, good-looking young man, with extremely light hair, small light moustache, and blue eyes, in reference to some of the statements made by the police, he said:

moustache, and blue eyes. In reference to some of the statements made by the police, he said:

"I have never received from Mrs. Fleming nor written to her any letters which contained any reference to poisons of any kind or description. I have never talked with her about polsons, nor to any one else. I know absolutely nothing about the slieged strained relations between Mrs. Fleming and her mother. I do not know of one thing, directly or indirectly, which could in any way be construed as evidence to prove Mrs. Fleming guilty of the crime of which she is charged.

The substance of what Mr. Wilckes said was reported to Acting Chief Conlin. He said:

"Wilckes's statement is not at all at variance with the information now in my possession. We have no letters of Mrs. Fleming to Wilckes nor letters from him to her which contain any silusion to poisons. Neither has Wilckes ever told the police that he discussed poisons with Prof. Doremus or any one else. We do not know, moreover, that Wilckes can furnish any evidence to connect Mrs. Fleming with the poisoning of her mother.

"The further one gets in this case the more disgusted one becomes. I should not be surprised if some of the witnesses produced at the trial by the prosecution repudiated upon the witness stand any statements they may have previously made which tend to show that Mrs. Fleming poisoned her mother.

The acting Chief added that Henry H. Bliss, husband of the dead woman, and her daughter. Florence Hiss, were receiving serious consideration from the police in reference to the death of Mrs. Bliss.

SAYS HER CHILD WAS KIDNAPPED. Mrs. Quian Applies for a Warrant for the Arrest of James P. Shaughnessy.

Mrs. Dora Quinn, a young married woman, of 38 Jackson street, this city, went to the Lee Avenue Police Court, Williamsburgh, yesterday and saked for a warrant against James P. Shaughnessy of 14 Fillmore place, Williams-burgh, for kidnapping her fourteen-months-old child. She said she formerly lived with Shaughchild. She said she formerly lived with Shaughnessy. She left him six months ago and during her absence from her heme one night, about three months ago, she said, Shaughnessy took away the child. She got it back.

She saw nothing more of Shaughnessy until last Monday afternoon, when he appeared and again took away the child. He took it to his mother's house. That night Mrs. Quinn went there and tried in vain to get it back. She went there again yesterday, but was unable to see Shaughnessy. Then she went to court. She was told to apply for a warrant in this city.

FOUND DEAD IN THE MINE. Mine in Wilkesbarre.

WILKESBARRE, Oct. 8 .- At an early hour this morning the rescuers discovered the bodies of the men who perished by the explosion in the Dorrance mine last night. The men had evidently been killed by the force of the explosion. The victims are: William L. Jones, aged 28, chief of engineer corps, Wilkesbarre; William Cahill, 19, engineer, Pittston; Leweilyn Owens, 22, engineer, Pittston; Daniel Davis, 35, fire boss, Wilkesbarre. The body of Davis was the first to be dis-have died together. Jones clasped the hand of probably never be known. The general opinion seems to be that one of the young engineers thoughtlessly set fire to the gas. Some do not agree with this theory. They say that the party was under the charge of Fire Ross Davis and that they were governed entirely by his instructions. Davis was a most careful fire boss and filled the place for nine years without an accident. The Dorrance mine is very gaseous and Davis made it a study to control this element.

There are two or three Hungarian laborers who have not yet been accounted for. They may have been at work in their chamber near the scene of the explosion, in which case they are hemmed in. If such is the case, they were in all probability killed by the fire or afterdamp. Foreman Daniels, however, thinks that the Hungarians got out alive and that the dead list will not exceed five. Michael Morris, miner, who was taken out, died at the hospital at 2 o'clock this morning. The condition of two other engineers, Miller and Hianchard, who are at the hospital, is still procarious. thoughtlessly set fire to the gas. Some do no

COSTS ON THE STONE CUTTERS. Journeymen's Union Must Pay $1,274.87 for Its Fun Suing Kelly.

Judge Gildersleeve granted in the Superior Court yesterday a motion made by Patrick J. Kelly to compel "The Journeymen Stone Cutters' Association of New York, Jersey City, East Chester, and their vicinities" to pay him costs amounting to $1,274.37. Kelly also asked that George Peacock, President of the association, bearrested for contempt of court. This application Judge Gildersleeve denied.

Kelly alleges that he became a member o the essociation in 1862, and for about three the association in 1892, and for about three years, beginning in 1889 was Treasurer. He ceased to act as such in 1892, and says that his accounts were found to be correct, and he turned over all the money that was due the organization. Subsequently an action was brought against him by Robert J. Anstrow, Jr., and two other members of the association for the recovery of $4,013.18. The case was decided in favor of Keily, and the costs amounted to $1.274.37. Keily alleged that an execution which was issued against the association was unsatisfied.

Then Keily secured an order to show cause why George Poacock, President of the association, should not be compelled to pay the costs awarded, and falling to do so should not be committed for contempt. Peacock was not a member of the association at the time the action was brought.

"1. We heartily commend the action of the Police Commissioners of this city in their earnest endeavors to enforce the Sunday Excise law, and will cooperate with them and with all policemen and Magistrates in the accomplishment of the desired end.
"2. That on behalf of workingmen and work-ng women whose rest day is threatened, and for the morality and prosperity and peace of the people at large, we selemnly protest against any such change in our Excise laws as would favor the drink traffic, and will resist to the utmost every attempt to give legal authority for the opening of saloons, or for the selling, under any form or guise, of intoxicating liquor on Sunday. sinday."

Huntington and Satterlee upon the same subject, and have copies of each circulated through the State as campaign documents.

Another interesting report submitted to the consideration of the society was that of a subcommittee appointed to actively cooperate with the police in assisting them in the enforcement of the Sunday Excise law. At the time this work was undertaken it was decided to call for volunteers who would patrol the streets on Sundays and report to the Police Captain in charge of the precinct in which the plan was to be operated such violations of law as might come to their notice. The section of the city chosen for the carrying out of this plan was the Eighteenth police precinct, with its station in East Twenty-second street, in which Caivary parish is situated. The matter was submitted to Commissioner Roseveit and met with his hearty approval.

The volunteers all belonged to Caivary Branch of the Churca. Temperance, society, and they began their ladors on Aug. 11 and have continued every Sunday since then. The volunteers were carefully instructed as to the methods they should adopt in fulfiling their tasks. They were forbidden to enter saloous for the purpose of buying liquor, but were ordered to watch carefully any suspected place. If they were satisfied that the law was being violated, the one who so concluded was directed to inform another, and then he was to make a personal examination on his own account. If the second watcher was also satisfied, the Captain of the precinct was to be notified of the fact, together with the name of the saloon keeper and the exact number and location of the saloon. In case the Captain did not pay attention to the information thus gained, a report was to be mother to discover each the Captain of the precinct was to be notified of the fact, together with the name of the saloon keeper and the exact number and location of the saloon. The report set forth that the workers had been most successful in their efforts to discover violations of law, and that the Captain of the precinct (Elbert O. Smith) had accepted the information tendered to him and had acted upon it promptly. The report urged that the same system be continued for the present.

Spreading to Eastern States, TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 8. Debs. President of the American Railway Union, has issued a circular to the local unions on the work of secret organization and says: I am especially pleased to inform our union that the order is spreading rapidly through all of the Eastern States. Next year, in all probability, the rastern states. Settypar, in an probability, a special convention will be held, when such changes in the organic law and in the general policy of the order will be made as may be required to adapt the order to the ever-moving tide of events. Some of our enemies were foolish enough to believe, when we were defeated last summer and sent to jail, that the career of the A. R. U. was ended. As a matter of fact it has just begun."
